Willet took great trouble to circulate the story of Jack and his sayings and doings at the Sagsville hotel, and we urge all who suffer from the disease to try this medicine.

He was interviewed by a dozen or may be sure he was asked what the old judge meant by calling his name. "You see," he answered gravely, that very day Judge Belknap had turned over his business affairs to me, I had drawn up his will—the first he ever made. He must to have been trying to tell that, for none of his family knew of its existence. The poor old fellow told me that he had always had a feeling that if he made a will he would die. It is quite remarkable stands this way. You left Raleigh on that he came to his death the very day he did so."

Was there a wedding? Certainly there was, and Jack and Helen are living to-day. Judge Belknap's murderer died

Does any farmer or farm-worker alive believe that any association of men was ever formed or that any number of manufacturers, merchants or producers ever combined for the sole purpose-or for any such purpose-of hammering the prices down, so that the farmer and farm-workers might procure those commodities which they are compelled to buy for less money than they formerly paid for them? I do not believe that there is one that is so insane. That these trusts have been formed to hammer higher prices out of these farmers and farm-workers is too apparent to need discussion. Many of them have also another object, viz: to hammer down the prices of these commodities which the farmer produces. Notably is this the case with leading sugar refineries of the country forming it. At once the price of refined sugar was advanced abnormally, but raws were depressed in price slightly. This Trust in one year advanced the difference between raw cents. The Trust produced in 1888 about seven million barrels of sugar, and by the mere force of the Trust alone was able to hammer nearly fifteen million dollars more out of the pockets of sugar consumers than they could otherwise have done had the consumers been free to buy their sugar from whom they would; and at ing these excessive prices from the pockets of the consumers they appeared to have been able to hammer down the price for which they bought the raw sugar. Last autumn a more perfect trust was organized. And practically the entire sugar business passed into the hands of the great "Sugar Trust," and with apparently the following results :

On December 3d, 1891, 96 per cent. Centrifugal sugar (standard raw) was bought by the refiners for 3 3-8 cents per pound, while refined (granulated) was sold for 4 cents per pound. By April 13th, the Trust had hammered an additional 5-8 of a cent per pound out of the consumers, and had suc-Sandstone Trust. We denounce the Republican protec tion as a fraud; a robbery of the great majority of the American people for the benefit of the few; We declare it to be a fits the farmer. Under the circumfundamental principle of the Democratic stances we fell justified in asking him party that the Federal Government has a few questions, viz: Do you becollect tariff duties, except for the purposes of revenue only, and we demand Do you believe that tin-plate is taxed that the collection of such taxes shall be for the benefit of the people or for the limited to the necessities of the Government, when honestly and econ administered.—Democratic Platform.

This is pre-eminently the land of the free, a country in which the oppressed are supposed to find relief from burdensome taxation as well as from ills of other kinds, it is supposed to be governed by the people and for the people, that is, for the greatest good to the greatest number. Under the tariff system now in vogue the greater number get the least good. As an instance take the manufacture of tin-plate; will the greater number receive any benefit from the manufacture receive any benefit from the manufacture of tin-plate; will the greater number receive any benefit from the manufacture of tin-plate; will the greater number that the country met at Dover Tuesday and nominated the following county ticket: State Senators, Thomas T. Under the McKinley law we pay two and one-fifth cents per pound. This promises good results. The principal business before the meeting was the consideration of public improvements on the beach, such as the consideration of a new and wide board-walk the entire length of the beach and the driving of an additional line of in this connection we would ask for an in this connection we have the the tide carried the vessel half a mile below the Pennsgrove wharf, were she broke in two of an am will be done to save the boat, and the tide car effect that the price to the consumer would not be increased. On this Peninsula every small town has a cannery employing from twenty to fifty or a hundred hands; these people are all suffering from the effects of the Mc-Kinley law, and conditions are such that they must knevitably lose the chance to make money by working in unnecessarily. The people were told that prices would not increase, but the end of the world tin-plate mills of this country came here from Europe for the purpose of taking places which they still occupy. If the manufacturers are so anxious for a heavy tax on tin in order that they may pay higher wages to the American workingman, why is it that these Welshman are not discharged after they have taught the American the intricacies of the new industry? Locally the matter is of great importance. In this State not less than five thousand persons are directly engaged in canneries through the summer months. Add to this number the great number of farmers depending non the culture of fruit and vegetables for a livelihood, and we have a directly and adversely affected by this monstrosity which is said to increase the price of everything for the producer and decrease it for the consumer. Our friend who was kind enough to send the article is a farmer, and a good one, but he insists upon believing that the tariff is not a tax and that it beneonal power to impose and lieve the McKinley law to be a good thing for the farmer, and if so why? The Rev. A. N. He also believes that the second coming of Christ will canneries compelled to use tin taxed take place soon and that we are at the threshold of what is the beginning of

The great number of people now making good wages in canneries will have to take less or go elsewhere.

There has been much said about the "pauper labor of Europe" in connection with the manufacture of tin-plate, the truth of the matter is that all the skilled workmen now engaged in the lim-plate mills of this country came book form.

book form.

The Rev. Mr. Keigwin bases his belief in the prophecy concerning the restoration of the Jews to their country in 1897, on chapter 11, verse 2, of the Book of Revelations, which says of the Gentiles "and the holy city shall they treat under foot, forty and two the Gentiles "and the holy city shall they tread under foot forty and two weeks." This represents 1,260 days, which according to Biblical calculations, is equivalent to as many years. The mosque of Omar, which occupies the supposed site of the temple in Jerusalem, was built in 637, which added to the 1,260 years during which the Gentiles shall tread the site under foot, will bring the time to 1897.—Sunday Star.

The propeller steamer Christina, of the New Jersey and Wilmington Ferry Company, was completely destroyed by fire early Monday morning. The boat runs between Pennsyille, Pennsgrove, and Wilmington, and was tied up at Pennsgrove for the night. The conflagration started in the fire room about 3 o'clock, and was first discovered by the steward, Smith Hewitt. Howard Hiles, the purser, barely escaped with his life. He had to run through the flames to reach the wharf. Hiles lost all his clothing except the underwear he had on, and $25 of the company's money.

Death of James Culbertson.

James Culbertson, a well-known resident and business man of Middle-town, died at his home here Monday morning, in the 72d year of his age. He was apparently enjoying his usual health when he arose and was at work in his garden before going to breakfast. While seated at the very pale, but when questioned he denied feeling the least unwell. He and a physician was summoned. He died a short time afterward of apo-

FOURTH AND MARKET.

We are selling the reduced stuffs rapidly. All the $1.25 shirt waists for 62½ c are gone; all the $1.50 and $1.75 ones at 90 cents are gone; all the Russian Blouses, $2.50 and $3.25 to $1.75, are gone. There's but a few of the others left and this is the last call.

Imperial Crepeline Silks were first of season goods at $11.25 per yard. They are good wearing fabrics not easily mussed and comfortable hot weather fabrics. They are in combinations of navy and primrose,, brown and primrose, brown and bronze, drab and pink, heliotrope and bronze, blue and cardinal. All we have left are reduced to 50 cents per yard.

You will have one more A breezy line of Negligee dress patterns of 8 and 10 Shirts White and Fancy Flan-yards and we shall sell them our Bathing Suits--before long buy them for future use.

> If there's enough men in our town with small feet to take what few small size stockings we have, here's the opportunity. These stockings are lisle thread in plain black, brown and navy blue, and only in size nine. The regular price when the assortment of sizes is complete is 25, 37½ and 50 cents per pair. If the men can be found we shall sell 3 pairs for 25 cents. It ought not to be so difficult to dispose of a lot of stockings of small sizes for ladies, but here they are of cotton, lisle and silk embroidered all in fancy colors. They were 50c, 75c, $1 and $1.35 per pair, and we shall sell the lot 3 for 50 cents; all in number 8.

> Silk Mitts and silk plated gloves, mostly black, regular 25, 371/2, 50 and 75c qualities, are reduced to 121, 19, 25 and 38 cents per pair.

We touch one another in all life's associations. We impress more or less all with whom we come in contact. In the home, in society, in business and in the church we leave our mark. It becomes us all, then, to inquire what kind of an impression we are making upon childhood and manhood in our several spheres of influence. Is it for good or for evil? If for good then our life is worth the living; if for evil then it is a failure. A true and successful life is one the touch of which upon others is quickening, ome, purifying and beneficent.

To read indiscriminately and heedlessly, as most men read newspapers, is a sheer waste of time. The purpose of reading is twofold-to acquire facts and to stimulate thought. You can do neither one nor the other without an intense concentration of the faculties. To embed facts or words ineffaceably in the memory requires patient and unwavering attention, followed by repeated rehearsals of the information gained.

The evil of the present day is not that men assign too much value to life, but the reverse. Life has fallen in astimation because, as at all periods of crisis and disorganization, the chain is broken which in all forms of belief attaches it through humanity to Bridemaids' Souvenirs.

Bridemaids' souvenirs are quite feature of the modern bridal, and to be comme il faut the element of novelty is indispensable. The bridemaids at a recent wedding were the recipents of lovely parasols of delicate white mull, beautifully embrodered and mounted over white satin, with white procelain handles on which were their individual monograms in gold. These they carried in the wedding procession, partly open, and filled with white sweet peas. Another bride presented her six bridemaids with parasols of white chiffon embroidered with forget me-nots, the handles of white Dresden china bearing the same design of tiny blossoms. A novel feature of this wedding was that the ceremony was performed on the broad, vine shaded piazza, the bridemaids holding their parasols open, so that the bridal party was shielded from every stray ray of

An Only Daughter Cured of Consumption.

When death was hourly expected, all remedies having failed, and Dr. H. James was experimenting with the many herbs of Calcutta, he accidentally made a preparation which cured his only child of Consumption. His child is now in this country, and enjoying the best of health. He has proved to the world that Consumption can be positively and permanently cured. The Doctor now gives the recipe free, only asking two 2-cent stamps to pay expenses. This herb also cures Night Sweats, Nausea at the Stomach, and will break up a fresh cold in twenty-four hours.
